WASHINGTON QUIETLY WAITING FOR SOME DEFINITE WORD BEFORE ACTION.

NO CHANGE REPORTED

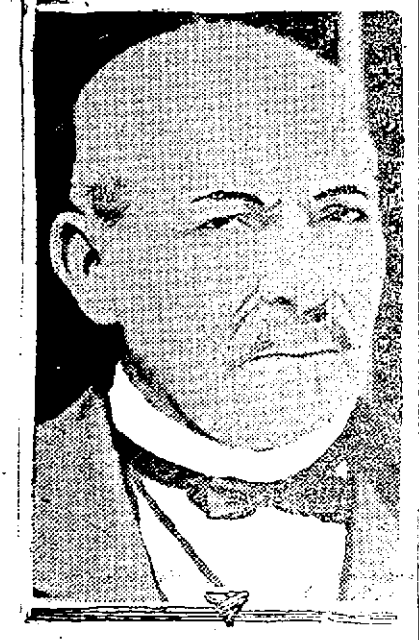

General Impression is That Nothing Will be Done Until First of Next Week.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Washington, Aug. 29.—Diplomatic Washington is much puzzled by the announcement that Secretary Bryan left today for a two days' lecture tour and President Wilson and family leave for New Hampshire on the evening train for over Labor Day. Just what status this leaves the Mexican affairs is not understood but it is taken to mean that there is nothing startling expected before Monday from that country. It was stated at the White House that all plans had been made for the President's departure and he would leave as scheduled. Bryan will return to Washington Sunday morning it is also stated.

Are Puzzled.

The administration officials were also puzzled by dispatches saying that John Lind had reconsidered his plan to go to Mexico City and would remain in Vera Cruz several days. While it has been left entirely to Mr. Lind's discretion to determine

PRESIDENT HUERTA WEARS HUNTED LOOK

This picture of President Huerta of Mexico, which has just reached this country, indicates that the dictator of the revolution-ridden republic is permitting cares of state to worry him. He wears a hunted look, and the lines in his face are much deeper than they were a few months ago, when his treachery brought about the murder of President Madero.

his movements, understanding has come from the official messages received yesterday that he would take an early train today for Mexico City to resume negotiations with the Huerta government.

No Word.

Early today no word had been received from Mr. Lind indicating any change in his plans. Secretary Bryan and President Wilson had an early conference and unless something serious develops the president expects to leave for Cornish, New Hampshire late today.

To Make Speeches.

Secretary Bryan left here today early for Boylston, Pa., to deliver a lecture this afternoon. He will speak at Keener, Pa. tonight, leaving there tomorrow morning. He will speak at Oxford, Pa. tomorrow afternoon and in Sellair, Maryland.

CLAIM DISCOVERY OF BLOND ESKIMOS

Three Fort Simpson Trappers Arrive At Edmonton With Story of Far North Experiences.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Edmonton, Alberta, Aug. 29.—Three Fort Simpson trappers named G. L. Deschamps and Joseph and Wm. Houston who have just returned from a long journey to the far north deny the claim of Vilghorn Stefansson the arctic explorer that he is the discoverer of the tribe of blonde eskimos. They declare that in their operations in the wilds of the far north with the assistance of an Eskimo guide they heard of the so-called white tribe of Eskimos, whiter than the white men, who have spent years in the cold and winds of the far north, and that they spent several weeks with the strange tribe, which numbered three hundred and secured many valuable skins.

When Stefansson arrived they declared they were already there and that a number of the tribe told of other and larger tribes similar to themselves on the shore of the Arctic. The trappers claim to have proceeded northward for some distance, thus making their return to civilization impossible when they learned of Stefansson's claim for the discovery of the tribe.

WOMEN'S INTUITION

Women are credited with a sort of sixth sense—intuition—which keeps them right in many emergencies.

In nine cases out of ten, this so-called feminine intuition is nothing more than an excessive carelessness and good judgment.

Women take pride in being careful and thrifty—they like to dress well and see their children dress well.

It is a source of satisfaction to them if they can look better than their neighbors, and do it for less money.

Women are readers of advertisements. They know it pays to read them. They had better not only profitable, but entertaining.

ADVANCE IN SALARY IS MADE FOR MAHON

Position as Federal Claim Agent Made As Lucrative as Industrial Commission Job.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Madison, Wis., Aug. 29.—A salary almost equal to that which he would have received if he had been confirmed as a member of the state industrial commission will be enjoyed by Assemblyman Thomas J. Mahon as federal claim agent, according to the statement of Governor McGovern which has just been filed in the office of the secretary of state.

A substantial increase in salary is given Mr. Mahon, over that received by Mr. Wilcox, who acted as claim agent during the last six months and who was chosen as a member of the industrial commission after the Mahon appointment had been rejected. Mr. Wilcox received a salary of $3,000 a year and $2 a day for expenses while in Madison.

The governor's letter gives Mr. Mahon a salary of $3,600 a year and $3 a day while in Madison, besides actual railroad fare traveling to and from Washington. If Mr. Mahon continues to reside here his salary and expenses will be $4,695 a year.

Under the same law which permits the governor to increase the salary of the federal claim agent, the governor has filed additional salary increases. The salary of Harry C. Wilber, clerk in the executive office, has been increased from $1,800 to $2,400. The salary of Col. Duncan McGregor, private secretary, remains at $2,800 a year. Miss Sims' salary as stenographer has been increased from $1,200 to $1,600 a year.

OIL STEAMER BURNS IN NEW YORK HARBOR

Vessel Containing 600,000 Gallons of Crude Oil and Gasoline in Flames Over Fourteen Hours.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] New York, Aug. 29.—The Steamer Burgomaster, with 600,000 gallons of crude oil and gasoline in her hold was still a flaming torch today in the Buttermilk channel, four hours after her cargo had been fired by a spark caused by friction when two tin cases struck violently last night.

At noon the 9000-ton vessel had risen 15 feet to port. At nine o'clock the water was within a few feet of her deck.

A battery of three fire boats surrounded the craft and pumped water on her all night.

Notwithstanding this the vessel burned steadily and blazing blocks of wood, dislodged from her steel frame, floated down the river menacing other craft.

Nine thousand gallons of benzine had not been reached by the flames at nine o'clock and the fire fighters were hopeful that she would sink before this should explode. Thousands of persons lined the water front and watched the flames.

With a hiss that sounded a block away the Burgomaster Hathman, sank to the bottom of the channel. The upper structure remained above the water. The ship settled but did not burn.

CURTIS WILL FURNISH GRAVEL FOR BRIDGE

Awarded Contract for Twenty-five Hundred Yards by Gould Construction Company—Soon Start Having

Contract to furnish 2,500 cubic yards of gravel for the construction of the new Milwaukee Street bridge has been awarded by the Gould Construction Company to Charles E. Curtis of this city.

The gravel will be hauled from the Wells street pits, a distance of about eight blocks from the bridge site. Mr. Curtis will begin hauling next week and employ from eight to ten teams much of the time.

The gravel will be deposited at the west approach, as the concrete mixer is to be kept in that position throughout the period of construction.

From 250 to 300 cubic yards of gravel will be used on each side of the bridge. The mixer is once started to avoid any delays.

The derrick on the east side of the bridge was put to work this afternoon tearing out part of the old bridge and piling up to provide room for excavation. The west side derrick has resumed excavation within the cofferdam. After it has gone eight feet below the water the driving of the supporting piling will be begun.

A night crew will start work in about two weeks time so as to hasten the construction. The crew will be just large enough to operate one derrick, the one or the other being used according to the stage of the work.

Hawks in a City Tower.

For some years past duck hawks have used the tower of the post office department building in Washington as a place of refuge. From their safe retreat high above the street they make daily trips to the Potomac, where they pick up many a luckless coot and grebe, which are forthwith sacrificed to appease the seemingly never completely satisfied hawk hunger.—Pur News.

CARNIVAL CONTINUES TO ATTRACT CROWDS

Good Shows, Plenty of Music and Lots of Fun Delight Big Audiences

Nightly

That the carnival has not become an old story to the residents of Janesville is evidenced by the large crowds that are being attracted to the "lot" each afternoon and evening. The shows are all good clean productions and even the mysterious castle is so funny, after you are out of it, that you laugh at others who are in the same predicament as you were.

The big show is the trained animals and they pack them into this tent night after night. Mr. Wilson, the proprietor, was one of the unfortunate showmen caught with the Buffalo but failure in Denver and came east and joined the Miller Bros' outfit for their tour of Wisconsin, which he states according to crop reports, is one of the most promising of all mid-western states. It is a funny thing but the carnival and show people all study crop reports before laying out their routes. The bands that furnish the music for the various shows is most excellent. The grounds are lighted by their own electric plant and resplendent with flags.

The carnival closes Saturday night.

HAD HIP FRACTURED WHEN ELEVATOR FELL

Frank H. Porter Suffers Misfortune At Bicknell Manufacturing Company Plant—Lost Control.

Frank H. Porter, residing at 603 West Bluff street, suffered the fracture of a hip and the spraining of an ankle about five o'clock yesterday afternoon as the result of losing control of a freight elevator at the Bicknell Manufacturing and Supply Company's plant, the elevator falling when loaded with a heavy lathe frame from near the third floor to the ground. He was removed to Mercy hospital where Drs. Penbers and Nuzum attended to his injuries. The fracture was such as not to require setting of the bones, which were not displaced, but the limb will have to be kept rigid until they knit. He is resting as easily as can be expected.

The elevator had not quite reached the third floor when it began to slip. Mr. Porter, instead of seizing the brake rope, grasped the release rope. This slipped through his hands, burning them severely. When he was nearly to the bottom he switched to the brake rope but it was too late, to break the fall. The elevator was considerably damaged and the legs were broken off the lathe with which it was loaded.

TO OPEN INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL WITHIN MONTH

Opening Will Probably Be Last Week in September—Night School Begins in Following Month.

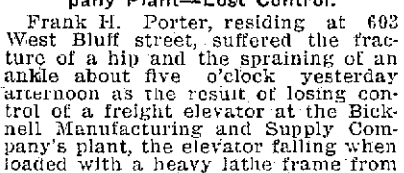

No definite date has yet been set for the opening of the industrial school but it is now practically assured that sessions will be resumed the last week in September. The night school will open some time in October. During the last week in September Principal Charles Hill of the Industrial school, Principal H. C. Buell, and others who taught in the industrial school last year, will be in attendance at the convention of industrial school teachers of the state at Madison.

New courses will be added to the night school curriculum, among them a course in shop mathematics. This has proved very popular in work cities. At two Rivers from thirty to forty were enrolled in it. The work of the evening school as in the past will consist of five groups of activities: commercial work, domestic or vocational work, industrial work, practical science, and academic branches. The commercial branches will consist of penmanship, book-keeping, typewriting, shorthand, commercial salesmanship, and arithmetic. Plain and machine sewing, cooking and household sanitation, millinery and household arts, decoration and design, and dressmaking come under the head of domestic science work. The industrial branches will be mechanical drawing, drafting, pattern making, joinery and cabinet making. Study of electrical appliances and gasoline engines is in the department of practical science, and reading for foreigners, practical English, and citizenship are the academic subjects.

Last year an enrollment of ten was sufficient to insure the organization of a class. It may be necessary to require more this year.

A meeting of the High school teachers has been called for 2:30 o'clock next Monday afternoon, and one for teachers in the ward schools at 4 p. m. the same day. Both meetings will be held in the science room of the High school.

ELGIN RACES DRAW THE SPEED MANIACS

Elgin, Ill., Aug. 29.—With the roar of his engine drowned by the cheers of spectators Joe Dawson driving a Galt car shot past the grand stand this morning on the annual 302 mile race of the Chicago Auto Trophy race.

The blur of dust he left behind him did not clear before the first of the seven pursuing cars swept past at intervals of a half a minute.

The other entries in order of speed are as follows:

Driver Ed Pullen

Ed Rickenbacher

A. Wishtel

Wm. Chandler

Harry Endicott

R. K. Mullford

C. W. Luttrell

Despite the condition of the track, which is rough in spots, favorable weather and the fact that two dangerous curves have been straightened the speed enthusiasts expected the record of the course of 33.7 to at least be equalled. The course consists of eight miles and two thousand and twenty feet and the drivers are to cover it thirty six times.

PLAN AUTO RACES AT THE STATE FAIR PARK.

Bob Burman, world acknowledged speed king, because he has traveled a mile faster than any other human being, will delight Milwaukee speed fans again this year. The Wisconsin state board of agriculture completed arrangements on Thursday, which Burman with his Big Blitzen Benz, is to cut loose on the track at state fair park on Saturday, September 13, the day following the close of the Wisconsin state fair.

Mr. Burman, Indianapolis, Burman's manager, arrived in the city late on Wednesday, and arrangements were completed Thursday morning.

Wild Bob's visit in connection with a regular card of auto races, and auto attractions that will take place on that date. Several other placed items who made the acquaintance of Milwaukee people during the Vanderbilt Cup races last year, also will take part in these events. Included are Harry Endicott, George Benedit, August Klein, Rudy Goetz and Rex Vance. In addition to these drivers Mr. Moross' team of auto polo players also will come and the exciting auto polo contest will be a feature.

The race card will include events for cars of 450 cubic inches maximum; events for cars of 600 cubic inches maximum and a free for all race, three heats, and the $2,500 W. I. trophy which carries with it a $50 check a week for the winner, as long as he retains the trophy.

The engagement of the auto speeders in connection with a plan of the Wisconsin state board of agriculture to make Saturday a special attraction day. In addition Irwin Bros. Cheyenne Wild West Show with its big cowboy ranch and Indian program will hold over for the extra day. The Cowboys' band of Cheyenne, Wyoming, also will remain for the day. As a further added attraction the Washington Park Driving Club of Milwaukee will stage four harness events, free for all race, class 1 pace, free for all (not class 1) trot.

In order that there may be no misunderstanding with the public, Secretary J. C. MacKenzie announces that the state fair proper will close on Friday night at 10 o'clock, at which time all exhibits will be released. Saturday is to be regarded merely as a special attraction day.

Men Have Never Failed America.

Confidence in the stability of republican institutions is rooted in our national experience. The love of freedom and the determination to be free has never failed among the people, and never has there been failure of men to interpret and give point and effect to the spirit which has animated them since before the foundation of the republic, the birth of which was the triumph of liberty in the western hemisphere.—Pittsburg Gazette-Times.

SPORT Snap-Shots

For the past five or six years Bobbie Wallace the veteran shortstop of the St. Louis Browns has been regarded as going back. Whenever sport writers couldn't think of anything else to write about they would slip over about how Bobbie Wallace the grand little infielder after upstart ump years in the big show is beginning to hit the slide. Lately there has been even more said to this effect because not long ago Wallace was hit on the hand by a ball at St. Louis and several bones were broken. And at once it began to be bruited about that Bobbie would hit to the brush this time for sure. But not so, says Bobbie. Not as long as he can sit up and voice a feeble protest. After eighteen years in the major leagues this is the first season that Wallace has not filled in regularly at short. But the recruit talent that has occasionally replaced him has been nothing so very hot and Wallace allows that they'll all have to step on before they can his job and send him to the bushes.

Probably the only Chinese sportswriter in the world has recently pulled his fight out from under the bushel and has won some little publicity down in New York city where he holds forth. Previous to the Ah Chung-Paddy McCarthy bout of a week or so ago the Chinese sportswriter was practically unknown save of course by his family and closest friends. However, his write-up of the above mentioned bout has made him quite the cynosure of the sporting world. And for brevity and punch it would be hard to beat the following which composes practically the whole of his hero's word picture of the fight. "Nearly about 2,000 white people last night saw Ah Chung box an American named Paddy McCarthy. Ah Chung too much first for McCarthy. All Americans clap hands for Ah Chung."

It's their ability to not the ball exactly where they want to that makes the Giant pitchers so effective and the wonderful work of the pitcher.

The Janesville Cardinals have accepted an invitation to play at Belvidere on Sunday and expect a fast game with a crack team of the Illinois city. It promises to be a fight to the finish.

Manager Enright announced today that the Cardinals would play the Rockford Maroons at the Driving Park diamond on Labor Day. This promises to be a fast game as the teams are evenly matched. A big crowd of fans will be on hand when the game is called at two-thirty.

PRESIDENT JUNIOR WINS $1,000 RACE AT BELOIT TRACK

Janesville Horse Takes Big Stake at Winnebago County Fair Thursday—Ernest Axel Breaks Track Record.

President Junior, the fast bay stallion owned by W. N. Millard of this city, won three successive heats in the 2:23 trot at the Winnebago county fair at Beloit on Thursday, taking the big stake money of the fair, the long end of the $1,000 purse offered by the Berlin Machine company. The best time was made in the last heat which was run at a 2:16 1/4 clip. Ernest Axel won the 2:16 class trot in three successive heats and broke the Beloit track record of 2:14 1/2 in two heats which he ran in 2:12 1/4 and 2:13 1/4. Belle Knight took the two passes to every three games which is enough to make up for lots worse control than Treseaus. Old Doc Crandall is the relief pitcher of the crew, having played in 28 games and pitched 63 innings, an average of about three innings to the game. Demaree at present leads as a winning twirler with an average of .785 and with the rest of them lining up as follows:

	G.	H.	R.	Pct.
Mathewson	31	214	77	.759

Tesreau	21	174	82	.600
Fromme	28	133	62	.663
Crandall	26	70	30	.333

All it requires for the Athletics to score a run is 1.8 hits. It may seem to some that the 8 hit wouldn't help much in scoring runs, but it must be remembered that these are simply statistics. The Athletics have scored something over 600 runs this season. Their nearest rival, the Cleveland Nans, have a few more than 500 runs and have an average of 2.1 hits to the run. The Mackmen this year have shown that pennants can be grabbed without having the best pitching staff in the world and without getting all the hits that were being got. And this in spite of the fact that they have hit oftener and have had better averages at the bat than all others. The big bunch that ever hit, they made counted and wonderful support and defensive work has given their adversaries few chances to grab a game.

bench can work wonders in aiding in the clean up.

However, for the present everything is at a stand still and patience must be used until matters adjust themselves.

With the real campaign of 1914 many months away the scheming politicians are already planning for political preferment.

Either Huerta has drawn back his horns or the city Mexican statesmen have decided to place the self-named president of their republic in the back ground in the hopes of placating Uncle Sam and keeping peace on the American continent.

An Iowa man has been soundly thrashed by his wife for not paying his newspaper subscription after she had given him the money to do it.

Unless Congress adjourns before the last Thursday in November, President Wilson is going to have a hard time drawing up his Thanksgiving publication.

Considering what happened to Madero, it might be well for Envoy Lind, when he is leaving Mexico, to walk backward, with his hand on his hip pocket.

Paraguay has ratified an extradition treaty with the United States. Soon there will be no place for criminals to flee but New York.

Still the wonder grows that so many entirely new legal technicalities can be introduced into one case when it is liberally financed.

A Pennsylvania man advertises for a wife who will obey him. It's dollars to doughnuts that he is still voting for Andrew Jackson.

Of all the teachers now hurrying home from Europe, not one has been held for trying to smuggle a diamond necklace.

It is to be hoped that Senator Penrose, before he wipes Mexico off the map, will give the noncombatants time to escape.

The president seems to assume that there may even yet be some Americans in Mexico who are able to get away.

Bees took possession of an Indiana hotel and stung the guests. Still, they were bound to get it, bees or no bees.

The Diary of a Bonehead.

The lady sat disconsolately and alone in the big, empty car three miles from the city and I pulled up my car and asked her why she was so sad and why she didn't move on.

"There is something wrong under the car and it won't run. I think it is fixed in a moment but I don't want to do it. I am terribly upset about it, too, as I want to keep a luncheon engagement in the city."

"Perhaps I can fix it," I replied gallantly.

"Perhaps," she agreed. She was a pretty lady. It always seems to be the pretty ladies who need the most help. I climbed down out of my car, and all unaided of the new two-piece suit which I had donned that morning, crawled in the dust and mud and wriggled under her car on my elbows and shoulder blades like a soft shelled crab going to work.

I pattered with the thing for ten minutes and got enough grease on my face, hands and clothes, off from the universal oil all over the lot.

However, I didn't mind that, as I had succeeded in making the engine start.

As I crawled out a battered up roadster, coming from the city appeared over the hill. I recognized it at once as a service car from a garage. In it were two men.

"Oh, here they come now," said the lady.

"Here, who come?" I inquired.

"My husband and the garage man," she replied. "My husband went to town to get the expert. He could have fixed the car himself, but he didn't want to get his other dirty. He is very particular about his appearance. Thank you so much."

Hints for Muggy Weather.

try every evening in your touring car. If you don't own a car, live next to some man who does and bet him that it can run four miles an hour until he gets mad and proves it to you.

Don't spend your money foolishly for beer. Wait until the wagon stops at your neighbor's and then go over and call on him.

Very good hot weather underwear can be made out of old hammocks that have been discarded. Every article should contain a dozen or so of these with enough material to supply the whole family.

No gentleman can weigh more than 119 pounds in hot weather and remain a gentleman. To reduce your weight ten pounds a day put on five sweaters, seal skin underclothes, and walk twenty miles a day. If you tire of walking, run a while.

Don't do a stroke of work all day long, but just sit in the shade. When the rainfall man comes with a wagon and takes your furniture away you can sleep in the park.

Don't worry about anything because worry makes you all the warmer. If the cat falls into the well, borrow water from your neighbor.

When everybody else falls hang onto an eave-trough on the shady side of the house and make a noise like a nicker.

Satisfied.

Curious Changes in Opals.

Curious changes can be brought about in some opals. There is one variety which is not transparent like the Mexican stones nor full of color like the prismatic kinds. Yet if it is given a drink—that is, placed in water—it will develop one and sometimes both of these qualities.

As Austere Women Love.

Austerity in women is sometimes the accompaniment of a rare power of loving. And when it is so their attachment is strong as death; their fidelity as resisting as the diamond; they are hungry for devotion and thirst for sacrifice. Their love is a piety, their tenderness a religion, and they triple the energy of love by giving to it the sanctity of duty.—Amiel's Journal.

Nothing Else.

Yet it has been recently discovered that during the reign of Hammurabi, king of Babylon, about 2230 B. C., divorce was almost as common as with us.

Babylon was a great and beautiful city, perhaps the greatest and most charming of which those favorit times could boast.

It contained culture and learning, wealth and art, material prosperity, wide dominion.

Its women were beautiful, yet their virtue became a byword. And Babylon fell.

Today only a heap of ruins in the desert marks its site.

Its name has become a term of reproach to all nations.

Much of our Christian Bible is given up to denouncing it.

The fall of its womanhood is the chief charge against it.

We must go back 4,000 years to this Babylon to find a parallel for the divorce evil of our day.

Even Rome was not so bad, although Rome also was lax, and Rome also fell. These are the facts, pointing like warning fingers out of the ages.

Their moral is so obvious that it need not be pointed out.

We may all have our opinions about divorce and kindred things, but even the babel of opinion grows silent before these awful witnesses from the past.

We cannot argue with these gaunt, accusing fingers.

Over and over again we have heard the truth that the temple of civilization is reared upon the cornerstone of the home.

SAYS CITIES SHOULD ENDOW GRAND OPERA

Marie McFarland.

It is only a question of a little while until every city in the United States of 200,000 population or over will have its own grand opera company playing in a municipal theater, says Marie McFarland, the grand opera star.

"No country is better able to carry out such a project than this one," she declares. "We have the wealth and we have the material. All we want are audiences, and once we have them they would insist on endowed grand opera which then could be given at prices within the reach of all."

Babylon's cornerstone crumbled. Her house fell, and great was the fall of it. The noise thereof still echoes along the ages.

The other day it was found that three-fourths of the homes of Boston's aristocratic Back Bay section are childless.

No; I am not saying that we are going the way Babylon went—nothing of the kind.

But— The law of cause and effect has not been repealed. Facts are facts, and righteousness is righteousness. Likewise— The God who reigned over Babylon Is the God who is reigning yet.

ONE MAN HELD ON A SERIOUS COMPLAINT

Officers Arrest Suspect and He is Locked Up at the Police Station—Second Man Leaves Town.

Officers Thompson and Worthington arrested a man giving his name as Jack Moore near the carnival grounds last evening on a serious charge which may be preferred against him by a young boy in whose company he was found on the riverbank. Moore had been employed as a canvas man by the carnival company and with a companion enticed two boys to a lone spot by the riverbank. While the officers were giving chase the other man fled and the boy, who was only after his earnest pleading for permission to leave town in fifteen minutes to avoid rough handling from his erstwhile companions, did he escape. According to men who followed him he must have reached Beloit by midnight as the dust he left behind was as thick as that of an auto. The carnival employees were much incensed over the fact that their fellow workers had been guilty of such acts and might have wreaked vengeance upon them had not one been arrested and the second given a running start for freedom. Just what will be done with Moore is not known but it is probable he will be held in custody until a new judge is appointed, that he may be dealt with according to the law.

COMPANY IS GRANTED PERMISSION TO BUILD

Rock County Telephone Company Secures Needed Permit—Carpenters Given Use of Streets For Celebration.

Permission was granted the Rock County Telephone Company by the council yesterday to build in accordance with the specifications and plans of the architects. This was done after an investigation satisfied the council that the type of construction was entirely safe and fire-resistant. Complaint that the plans were not in accordance with the building ordinance was made by Fire Chief Klein but this was merely of a technical nature because the ordinance makes no provisions for the use of tile in building exterior walls. The United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners was given permission to use the streets on Labor Day, September 1. The sidewalk line on Racine street between the Racine street bridge and south Main street, was established at six feet from the property line. The report of the Board of Public Works on the filing of several streets was accepted and placed on file. Adjournment was taken until Saturday afternoon.

THIEVES MAKE HAUL WHEN FAMILY IS OUT

Rob Home of Thomas E. Welsh of Considerable Clothing and Jewelry—Robber Drops Articles.

While Thomas E. Welsh and family were enjoying an automobile ride last evening thieves entered the home at 182 South Jackson Street and stole a considerable quantity of clothing and jewelry. The thief was discovered on their return at ten o'clock and the police notified. Officers Peter Champion and Thomas Morrissey responded to the call and made an investigation. Today the police of Beloit, Rockford and Madison were informed of the robbery and given a complete list of the stolen articles. In their haste to get away the thieves dropped three pieces of jewelry in front of the Garfield school where they were found this morning by Patrick Connors, who drives a wagon for an outside brewery. They consisted of a chain and pocket, a Knights of Pythias watch chain and a hand ring set with small diamonds. The locked had been run over and dented. Evidently most of the booty had been dumped into a pillow case. One full leather suit case was taken but others that stood within plain sight were unmolested. It is believed that the thieves did their work in very short time as no one was left as custodian of the home in the family's absence was not gone more than fifteen minutes. The front door of the house had been left open during the time.

The articles carried away were 2 pairs of heavy gray trousers, 1 pair blue serge trousers, 1 of light gray color and weight, 1 dark gray, 2 of black broadcloth, a band ring set with small diamonds, three pairs of shoes, two black willow plumes, brown silk dress, leather suit, cane, pair of gold shirt studs, and pair of pearl set cufflinks.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Harris disembarked from Big Liner Wednesday Before Fire Broke Out.
Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Harris of this city arrived in New York on Wednesday on the Hamburg-American liner, Imperator, which was swept by flames early Thursday morning before the steamer passengers had been landed. Mr. and Mrs. Harris disembarked with the other passengers on Wednesday afternoon and the fire did not break out until Thursday morning. The loss will amount to over $50,000 according to today's dispatches. Most of the ship's provisions were destroyed, but in spite of the fire, it will sail Saturday morning as scheduled, and thousands aboard will hardly see a trace of the disaster first night. Inspectors of the board of Hamburg underwriters, whose word, under treaty the United States government accepts, certified today to the Imperator's complete seaworthiness. In spite of exaggerated stories of the fire that went abroad early today not a single reservation for Saturday's trip was canceled.

Ideal War Horses.

It can be said in all confidence that the Barb and Arabian horses are the ideal war horses of the world, and the product of their breeding to our western ponies would undoubtedly be of high standard and considerably improve our cavalry mount, making him second to none as adapted to the conditions of modern warfare and tactics.

Railroad Presidents

By GEORGE FITCH, Author of "At Good Old Slwash."

The Railroad President is a victim of a man's cruelty who has thus far been overlooked by the S. P. C. A.

Railroad presidents are elected by railroad owners, to run their railroads. They would do this happily and with no trouble at all if it were not for the populace.

The people will not let railroad president alone. Not content with being allowed to ride on the cars they write him letters when the trains are late and sue him when he tries to run two trains past each other on the same track and dismembers their relatives.

Once a railroad president was as powerful as a king, and when a city displeased him he wiped it off the timetable and let it wither away. He spent his life careering gaily in his road in a private car while the fast mail stood on a side track, and when a citizen came to him, but in hand, to ask him if he might water a load of hogs which had been a week enroute he got the old plutocratic stare and was deposited on the sidewalk by the janitor.

All this is now changed. When a railroad president issues an order to his employes Congress looks it over and tells him to forget it for about six months and nine days. When he raises his rates he is told to go lie down and when his passenger trains run off the track the coroner's jury recommends that he be held without bail and fed on straw.

When a railroad president rides on his private car nowadays he has to take two bushels of papers along with him for an excuse. When he would play golf he has to address the farmers of Mary Jane country on the benefits of sub-soil plowing and if he should refuse to do so they would murmur and complain and stocks would go down half a point when a rival line got the business.

All the railroad president has to do now is to work, and when he isn't working he is explaining things to the grand jury or an investigating committee of Congress. He rises at five and figures out how to pare off $1.45 from his expense without offending the Interstate Commerce Commission. At ten he asks the Amalgamated Employes if they would prefer rocking chairs or hammocks for their noon day siestas.

At night he writes letters to dissatisfied customers and after he has gotten up in the morning he goes to bed he gets up in the morning and apologizes over the phone to a lady in Oskaloosa because the 11:45 p. m. local has not yet arrived. And the next day he is fired by the directors, who live in hope because he hasn't increased their dividends.

We would pity the railroad president if he had only taught us anything about the pity business when he was 17 in forty-five foot capitals.

First Honor Legion in Haiti.

It is not generally known that the famous order of the Legion of Honor was adopted at Haiti in 1849. When Souloque became emperor under the name of Parstin I, he instituted an order in imitation of that which had been established by Napoleon in 1802. Statues, ribbons and insignia were precisely identical, and since the sovereign of Haiti distributed his honors to all and sundry with lavish hand, the French government was considerably embarrassed. The death of Souloque ended the difficulty.—Gaulois.

Ruskin to Kate Greenaway.

W "I SHOULD THINK" PEOPLE. ISDOM is supposed to be a difficult thing to acquire and we are often told that there is no royal road, no wonderful short cut to possession of it; and yet there is a certain class of people in the world who seem to have become wonderfully wise without any appreciable effort.

In some strange mysterious way such people seem to know far more about your affairs and the best way to manage them, no matter how complicated they may seem to you, than you do yourself. I call these wonderfully gifted folk the "I should think" people, because that phrase is so often on their lips.

You happen to mention to one of this class that you are going to buy a dark blue suit, and they at once point out the folly of your choice. "You are so dark that you ought to always wear light things for contrast," they explain kindly. "I should think you'd get a light gray suit. That's so much better for summer too." Of course they do not know, as you do, that your wardrobe is overstocked with light clothes already, and that you really need something dark for office wear, and that you wanted a blue suit to go with your white flannel trousers. And yet they know better than you do what you ought to get. Isn't it wonderful?

Such people, even when they have not a chick or a child, always know far more about bringing up other people's children than their parents. When they visit a friend who has children, this air fairly rings with "I should think," "I should think you'd stress to it when you told Harry to finish cutting the grass today." "I shouldn't think you'd let Gertrude wear that nice new dress to the picnic." I should think you'd snuff Frank in the closet. It's the best way to cure him so on. And when you think that they don't know more of an education than grass-cutting; that you promised Gertrude when the dress was made, that she should wear it to that particular picnic and that Frank had hysterics the only time you ever shut him in a closet; it makes their ability to pass judgment upon these matters seem almost uncanny, doesn't it?

These are but one or two instances of the ways of the "I should think" folks, but I am sure you can supply plenty more from your own experience. For, miraculously wise though they are, they are surprisingly common, and most of us know at least one or two members of the class.

Of course you are very grateful that they take enough interest in your affairs to show you how to manage them properly. You're not? How extraordinary! Truly, it's no use to expect gratitude for anything nowadays.

HEART and HOME PROBLEMS

BY MRS. THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson—While I was away visiting this summer I met a young fellow who is my cousin's brother-in-law. His birthday is soon. He will be eighteen years old. (1)—Would it be wrong for me to send him a birthday postcard? I am sixteen years old.

(2)—Am I too young to have boy friends come and see me on Sunday evenings? If I am, how old should I be before I let them call?

BRUNETTE. (1)—He probably would not think any more of you if you sent him a card. I don't. If he thinks enough of you to find the date of your birthday, so he can send you a card. Don't "chase him," my dear. If he likes you he'll want to be friends of his own free will. You are too young to have beaux, but I hope you have boy friends and that they visit at your home and you all have a good time together. But don't allow any spooning or sitting alone with you in the parlor, and always tell your parents all about your boy friends, as they are better judges than you about them. You should be eighteen before thinking of having a beau.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1)—I went with a fellow about three months and the other night when he came to see me he told me he was going home on Saturday so he could not come to see me Sunday. And on Sunday I went to a park near my home and saw him with two other girls. At first we passed each other without speaking. He put his hand down as if he was ashamed of what he had done. He has telephoned to me several times but I have not been at home. So please advise me what to do. (2)—I have been going with a fellow from out of town, and a girl friend of mine knew that I was keeping company with him. One Sunday I decided to go to this town with some girl friends of mine and while there saw this fellow with a girl friend of mine. Would you consider this girl a friend of mine?

GRACE. (1)—His sin was in deceiving you. If you make up with him you never will be able to trust him again. So better let him go. (2)—He had a perfect right to go with another girl. He is not engaged to you. I see no harm in the other girl going with him, as she probably knows you are not engaged to him. Anyway, from your letter I must judge that you have been going with two men at the same time. What that treating either one of them square?

Dear Mrs. Thompson: What do you think of a man who never calls to take his wife any place? She always has to ask him to go. Then he pays no attention to her, but watches some other woman all the time. I have never said anything, as he is so high tempered but it makes me feel bad. I love him. We have only been married a couple of years. He says he loves me, but I think if he did he would not try to make a man on some one else and me with him; it makes me look small. (2)—Don't let him see that you love him so much. Go out with him as much as possible, without teasing him to take you. Dress your prettiest, and admire every good looking man you see. If he admires a pretty woman, tell him you think she is prettiest, too, but meantime keep your eyes on some other man and occasionally get in a few admiring remarks of your own. That ought to make him pay a little more attention to you.

Unless Great Britain takes a brace no first class bird will seek the place of laureate. I'm thinking; he gets some sixty pun a year and draws a cask of ale or beer, if he's in a mood to drink. T. P. the laureate drinking. T. P. and poets need good groceries on which to feed, and clothes and shoes and bonnets; unless they're nourished well they can't in noble freize rage and rant, and turn out ordered sonnets. And so the Kiplings do not run for jobs that pay but sixty pun and cask of ale or porter; the crossroads poets make the race, and he who gains the meagre place must eat his diet shorter. Great Britain ought to give the bard stovehold enough to fill his yard, a cow and bunch of chickens, an order on all stores in town—instead of which she screws him down, and treats him like the dickens. No wonder that anointed poets all troubled seem with husky throats when singing to his kiplings; starvation wages bring despair, and the bard's heart but caring care, and gray hairs in his ringlets.

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your freckles; as the prescription of oline—double strength—is guaranteed to remove these honey spots.

Simply get an ounce of oline—double strength—from Badger Drug Co., and apply a little of it night and morning and you should soon see that even the worst freckles have begun to disappear, while the lighter ones have vanished entirely. It is seldom that more than an ounce is needed to completely clear the skin and gain a beautiful clear complexion. Be sure to ask for the double strength oline as this is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.

Harvard Salad—Mix salad cream, ber cubes and finely cut celery, using equal parts; then add one-half measure of mayonnaise, broken in pieces, and one-third the quantity of finely cut red or green pepper. Moistened with dressing, mound on thick slices of tomatoes, sprinkle with finely cut celery and arrange on lettuce leaves. For the dressing mix one-half tablespoonful each of salt and mustard and three-fourths a tablespoonful each of sugar and flour. When thoroughly blended, add one egg and one egg yolk, slightly beaten, three tablespoonfuls of melted butter, three-fourths cupful of rich milk and one-fourth cupful of vinegar. Cook in a double boiler, stirring constantly until mixture thickens; strain and chill.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

TO TRY is better than the thing you try for. To hope is higher than the height attained. To seek is nobler than the object gained. To wrestle with the angel—this avails. Although the motive for the wrestling fails.

GOOD THINGS TO EAT.

Here is a recipe for ginger snaps which will snap. Boil a pint of molasses for five minutes, remove from the fire and add a tablespoonful of baking soda, a cupful of lard, a tablespoonful of ginger or more if liked strong and four to make stiff. Cloves and cinnamon may be added if liked a tablespoonful of each.

Raisin Pie—Cover a half cup of raisins with a cup of water and soak two hours. Beat an egg until light, add a cup of sugar and the juice and rind of a lemon, a tablespoonful of flour and a teaspoon of cornstarch. Add the raisins and bake with two crusts.

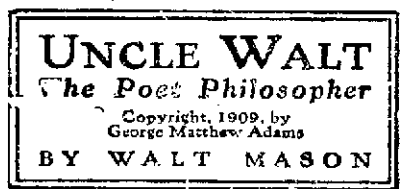

Savory Rice and Tomatoes—Peel and slice six large tomatoes and chop two sweet peppers fine, butter a baking dish and put in a layer of tomatoes, cover with a half cupful of cooked rice and chopped peppers, repeat with another layer of each, season with two tablespoonfuls of butter, a sprinkling of sugar and salt. Bake covered for three-quarters of an hour and uncovered for fifteen minutes.

Cheese Salad—Dissolve a tablespoonful of gelatin in four tablespoonfuls of hot water, add a half pound of grated cheese and a pint of whipped cream, season with salt and paprika to taste. Pour into a wet mould and allow it to become firm. Turn out and cut in slices. Place each slice on a crisp piece of lettuce and serve with a boiled dressing.

Date Nut and Pineapple Salad—Chop a cup of dates and three good sized apples, add a cup of chopped celery, a cup of broken nuts, and a half pound of seeded and skinned grapes. Mix all together and heap on a slice of canned pineapple arranged on a lettuce leaf. Serve with mayonnaise dressing.

A few marshmallows may be substituted for the nuts or added with them, making a more elaborate salad.

MUSHROOM RICH IN FLAVOR.

It is very important for those who are fond of mushrooms to be able to distinguish those which are edible from the poisonous ones. The edible usually appear in old sod in a clear, open, sunny field. They are at first very small on a short foot stalk and are then known as button mushrooms. Their growth, however, is very rapid; even in one hour the under skin cracks and the mushroom then opens, spreading like an umbrella, showing the gills or fine lines underneath, which should be a pale salmon pink color. In another hour or so it changes to a dark brown and is then "old."

According to one authority on mushrooms, they may prove poisonous if collected too late or in places which are too moist. Those with yellow or white gills and those which grow around decayed stumps of old trees or in low, damp, shady places are to be avoided. Good mushrooms are a greenish yellow, while the poisonous ones have the very opposite. It is always safe to eat the canned mushrooms, although they are not so digestible as fresh ones.

But after all is said there is no royal road in distinguishing poisonous from the edible mushrooms. As we have suggested, one must know the characteristics, habitat and general appearance to be perfectly safe in the selection of mushrooms. Mushrooms have a wonderful delicacy in flavoring and this is where their chief value lies. While they are usually placed with the nitrogenous foods, it is because they do not contain starch nor sugar, but a large percentage of water and not sufficient nitrogen for a tissue builder, neither do they take the place of meat.

Never soak mushrooms in water, as it destroys the fine flavor, but dip them off and wash them in a basin of water, rubbing the caps with the thumb or a damp cloth; or let water run lightly over them from the faucet, holding one in each hand. Contrary to general opinion, for true flavor, all mushrooms are best cooked without being peeled, with the exception of the puff ball variety, which is not common. The stems and caps may be cooked together, or the stems separately for soups and sauces. Truffles belong to the same family as mushrooms and from their manner of cultivation are not only fine in flavor and useful in fancy garnishing. They can only be purchased canned.

Cream of Mushroom Soup.—One-half pound of mushrooms, one-half pound of onion, one-half cup butter, one-fourth cup cream, one cup salt, one teaspoon white soup stock or milk, one quart water.

Directions—Prepare the mushrooms as above directed and chop fine. Add to the stock, cover and simmer slowly twenty minutes. Rub through a sieve. Pour this over the bread crumbs, add butter and heat, stirring constantly until it is the consistency of thin cream. Stand in hot water and heat the cream; add this with salt and pepper, reserving a spoonful to put on top of each serving. As soon as hot serve at once with pulled bread or croissants. If milk is used simmer the mushrooms in the butter. Broiled Mushrooms.—Butter, salt, pepper, toast.

Directions—Cut the stems close to the gills, prepare the caps as directed without peeling and place them in a buttered broiler, cap side up, under a moderate heat for five minutes, turn, put into the center of each one a tiny bit of butter, a little salt and pepper and broil another five minutes. Have ready squares of buttered toast. (Place the mushrooms on top, skin side down so as not to lose any juices. The stems may be used for soup or sauce.

Mushroom Omelet.—One-half pound mushrooms, one-half pound eggs, four, water, four tablespoonfuls salt, butter, three tablespoonfuls pepper, lemon juice, one teaspoonful.

Directions—Remove the stems close to the gills, clean as directed and slice thin. Put two tablespoonfuls of butter into a sauce pan; when melted add the mushrooms, cover and simmer slowly ten minutes. Put the remaining butter in a steel saucer and melt slowly over the fire while beating the eggs without separating only until white and yolk are mixed.

Add water, salt, pepper and lemon juice and when the butter in the saucer is hot, but not brown, add the egg mixture and finish cooking until "set." Over this turn the mushrooms. Then with your spatula turn over one-third of the omelet and then fold in once more as you turn it out onto a hot platter. Serve at once. The stems may be cut fine, made into a sauce and poured around the omelet.

my home. I purchased a few brushes and a pot of paint and as time permitted, painted first the interior woodwork, then the outside of the house. What a difference it made! The expense of carfare, clothes, living and taxes had to be met and what was left over of my salary went for fruit trees and shrubs. With ten dollars a week I have been well clothed and fed, bought a desirable lot and built a really attractive little home. In the spring I plan to add a large front and rear porch—acres. Then I intend to purchase two vacant lots by backing my present place for them.

That woman is from Indiana. It would read better were I to say, "My home—what I am thinking of is—Indiana folks can do so why not Wisconsin? What is your opinion?"

THREE YOUNG WOMEN DROWNED AT GENEVA

Janesville Campers and Cottagers at Summer Resort Shocked by Fatal Accident.

Janesville campers and cottagers at Lake Geneva were shocked last evening to learn that three young women college students were drowned and a fourth narrowly escaped death at the Y. M. C. A. camp here. The dead are Gertrude Gazel, Cornelia De Gues, and Della A. King. A sister of Miss King, Lucy King, was saved by clinging to their overturned boat.

The four young women live in Pel-la, Ia., and represented the Central college of that city at the Y. M. C. A. camp here. They started for a boat ride in the early evening and the boat capsized.

The bodies have not been recovered.

At the Y. M. C. A. camp it was declared that these were the first drownings since the camp was established thirty years ago.

INSPIRING ADDRESS

BY MISS ZONA GALE

Wisconsin Authoress Gives Valuable
Suggestions at Mass Meeting For Women This Afternoon.

Inspiration to the women of Janesville in their efforts to establish a Civic Improvement club and to make it a vital factor in the betterment of the city was given by Miss Zona Gale, the well known Wisconsin authoress in her address at the mass meeting held at Assembly hall this afternoon. Miss Gale is well known as the writer of "Mothers to Men," "The Story of a Friend," "The Story of a Girl," and other books that show her keen insight into community life, her power to delineate character, and to infuse charm into the life stories of the humble. Her most recent book, "Mothers to Men," is perhaps the most stimulating story of a successful movement for civic betterment that has yet been written. Miss Gale is now chairman of the Civic Department of the National Federation of Women's Clubs and is regarded as an authority in the work to which she is devoted. The nominating committee of the Civic Improvement club, consisting of the vice-presidents elected at the mass meeting, have already submitted nominations for permanent officers after which the ladies preceded to hold an election. The meeting was very well attended and great enthusiasm aroused.

Why is the soda cracker today such a universal food?

People ate soda crackers in the old days, it is true—but they bought them from a barrel or box and took them home in a paper bag, their crispness and flavor all gone.

Uneeda Biscuit—soda crackers better than any ever made before—made in the greatest bakeries in the world—baked to perfection—packed to perfection—kept to perfection until you take them, oven-fresh and crisp, from their protecting package. Five cents.

TOBACCO HARVEST IS NOW UNDER WAY

Crop Now Being Rushed Into Curing
Sheds in Sound Condition—
Other Edgerton News.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Edgerton, Aug. 29.—The harvest of the tobacco crop is now under way. It started in nearly all sections of the state and the fields are being transferred to the curing sheds in very good condition says the Edgerton Reporter. The later tobacco continues to make satisfactory advancement toward maturity, so that from this on work of the harvest will be hurried along with all dispatch.

Buyers have been riding about the growing districts plentifully of late noting conditions of the crop, but on the side of a few lots of leaf out we do not learn of any effort to start field buying as yet. Several of the large operators have their men ready to take the field should the movement start, but the better judgment of the principal is that it ought not to be started for some weeks yet.

One of our tobacco dealers who has roved pretty thoroughly the growing districts of the state, informs us that with a couple weeks more of suitable weather he thinks Wisconsin will produce about a full acreage crop this season. He finds some belated fields in all sections but he does not think late tobacco in the Vernon county district so late as a year ago. The coming week will be the heavy week of the harvest, but the tobacco now going into the sheds is sound and generally in good condition. From present appearances the crop may not be a fancy one but a serviceable binder, without much question, unless unforeseen shed trouble occurs later.

Most of the packers are still busy sampling their last year's holdings, but very few of them have yet reached the eastern market. Outside of the sales of a few small lots of old leaf we do not learn of any transactions in cured tobacco worthy of note.

Israel (At Mount Sinai)

(The Story of Sinai)

After the dead level of Egypt, the lowering, thunder-smitten cliffs of Sinai would be all the more impressive. The place seems isolated by nature—the Almighty's secret audience-chamber. The most reverent traveler feels the spell of the spell of awful grandeur. He recognizes at once the appropriateness of nature's setting for that scene of superlative majesty.

A hundred days had passed since Moses and Miriam had sung their psalms on the shore—days in which bitter waters had been sweetened, quails and manna had been gathered and the hordes of Amalek overcome at Rephidim. And now three million people stand upon the four hundred acres of howling floor, and gaze at the granite throne of the Almighty towering two thousand feet above them.

Nature was agitated as if on the point of dissolution. That pyramidal altar shook and smoked and blazed. Jehovah made flames of fire his ministers that day. There were angel attendants also, as Stephen and the author of Hebrews affirm. There was a sound as of a trumpet executing a crescendo. But speech of man breaks down in effort to describe the Theophany, this most august sight of earth and great event by far of the old covenant.

The unapproachable holiness of God was signally indicated by the barrier set up between the multitude and the mountain, and the extreme penalty upon man or beast for so much as touching Jehovah's territory and material throne. A day, too, had been spent in ablutions before the people could so much as stand in the divine presence.

Ineffably glorious as this scene was, it did not amount to, as legal affirms, "an absolute enslavement of human individuality by the majesty of the divine personality." Here was the ratification of a covenant, and that always implies the freedom of both parties. It was the establishment of conjugal relation, in that secret shrine of nature God married his people, having first won their consent, which they expressed in the words, "All that the Lord hath spoken we will do." This was the coronation of Jehovah, the establishment of a Theocracy, but the setting of it up with the full consent of the governed.

Tals was the birth time and birth-place of Theocracy—a nation of which God himself was King. In view of what he had done for them, "bearing them on eagle's wings to himself," the Almighty compels to ask avast to adopt him as their ruler, although parentally he claims them already in his general proprietorship of the whole earth.

Favoritism is foreboded at the very inception by the declaration of the divine purpose. In honoring Israel it is his purpose to honor all nations. He will make Hebrews a "kingdom of priests," that they may minister in holy things to all. The one condition prescribed is obedience. This is not arbitrary, but inheres in the very nature of the case. Obedience to his voice and keeping his covenant is essential.

That day from the broad stream of human life God took part of the human family as the miller takes part of the stream into his race for a special purpose. The divine design when accomplished, the stream of Hebrew life was to be discharged into the universal stream again. The inspired writer of the New Testament misses the question, "What advantage kata the Jew?" Then he answers his own question when he says, "Much every way! for unto him was committed the oracles of God." As the fancie takes his valuable papers and securities, and places them in the fire and burglar-proof safe, so God put the invaluable truths of his own unity and spirituality and man's immortality and the possibility of his forgiveness in the custody of one race, so that in the blindness of time all might be benefited.

THE TEACHER'S LANTERN.

It has been said that the United States violated its own fundamental principle ("government rises from the consent of the governed") when it took over the Philippine Islands. But the principle referred to is not of universal application. The absurdity is proved, for example, by the proposition to code such a right to cannibal island. When Thomas Jefferson wrote the words, he had in mind a specific class of people; for example, the American Colonists—educated men, who were such only after they had qualified to name and determine the form of government under which they will live.

The first act of the United States in taking over the Philippines is insignificant. The Government threw its weight into the hands of the teachers to raise the people as quickly as possible to such a standard of education and morality as should qualify them to determine the form of government under which they should continue to live.

Exactly so by a chain of educative providences God had brought Israel up to a point of moral understanding where he was qualified to determine what should be his form of government. Here was no "enslavement," but deliberate, rational choice in the national assembly of the people.

Mr. Sinai remains the scene of the most important transaction in the history of the human race, namely, promulgation of the Covenant. Manifestation of Divinity.

Commitment of Ten Commandments—Modern interest in the place is maintained by the discovery in the monastery sixty-eight years ago, by Tischendorf, of the most perfect New Testament manuscript called "Sinaïticus" and preserved at St. Petersburg.

The Young People's Devotional Service.

August 31, 1913. Ephesians 6:10-20. MISSIONARY ESSENTIALS AT HOME AND ABROAD: (11) PRAY ER.

In his immortal inventory of the Christian's armor—offensive and defensive—the apostle names prayer last of all, as if to signify that prayer is a more permanent supply than is here referred to. It is rather the atmosphere of constant communion with the invisible Power it is instant and persevering watchfulness. This is the element essential to success at home and abroad—individual and collective.

Watch Your Baby These Summer Days

Little Stomachs Get Out of Order
Easily in Hot Weather.

During the hot months mothers should look very carefully to the condition of the bowels of babies and young children, and, for that matter, it is very important in the lives of people at all ages. Care should be taken that the water is pure, the milk wholesome and the fruit ripe (not over-ripe) and that not too much of anything is eaten.

When trouble results it is usually in the form of constipation or of diarrhea. If the child loses appetite, is fretful or languid, and complains of headache, you may look for constipation. Give it a small dose of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at night on getting, and by morning this pleasant laxative will have acted and the child will be its normal self again.

At the first sign of a summer cold also give Syrup Pepsin, as the cleaning out of the bowels will usually be sufficient to break the cold. Summer diarrhoea can be stopped in the same way by riding the bowels of the poison and germs that cause the trouble.

This opinion of the value of Syrup Pepsin is shared by thousands of people like Mrs. Ella Henzel, 124 Nichols Ave., Stratford, Conn. who uses it successfully herself and gives it to her two little boys; and Mrs.

C. C. Allen of New Monterey, Cal., who finds it in every particular just what she and her family need.

Avoid giving children cathartics, purgatives, pills or powders, as they are too harsh. Confine yourself to a gentle laxative- tonic like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. You can obtain it of any druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, the latter being the family size.

Families wishing to try a free sample bottle can obtain it, postpaid, by addressing Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 418 Washington St., Monticello, Ill.
